A HIGH SCHOOL GIRL'S DIARY

Sept. 4, 1945

Dear Diary:

Jeeps, they certainly started us off with a bang this year. First day, tests, tests and more tests. It wouldn't have been so bad if it had been a little cooler. We did get a few recesses though. The kids started sneaking down town for refreshers so—we don't even get to breathe any fresh air now. Goodnight now. Guess what we do tomorrow. That's right, tests!

P. S. Some of the transfers from Mt. Auburn are plenty O. K.

Dear Diary:

I hope I remember to get a yo-yo and a fly swatter tomorrow. All the kids have them. Miss Wolverton's room is filthy with flies so it was Roger's and Marge's idea to bring fly swatters.

A bunch of fellows had a contest today to see who could work his yo-yo the longest. They're really getting good at it .The freshmen even do pretty good.

Well, I have to figure out before going to sleep if Drew likes Nancy or Iris best. I've a feeling he's fickle.

Sept. 12, 1945

Dear Diary:

Now I can have my name in the announcements every morning to pay my book fine. The library club met today to elect officers and to make plans for the school year. Mrs. Mc Atee is their sponsor. She's that teacher with a swell sense of humor.

After school tonight I couldn't even hear myself slam the locker door. (I always try to slam it harder than Donna Smetzer when she's mad.) You see, the cheerleaders had their tryouts tonight. If how strong their lungs are counts, we'll really have support.

Sept. 19, 1945

Dear Diary:

We had our first game tonight, against Traer. Wow, you should have seen the shoving around Traer got!

Darrell Lockhart and Jim Liebsch are all right. I mean really!

Anyhow, the important thing is, we smashed them—7-6.

I'm in the dog house, I betcha. The folks woke up when I was sneaking in.

I wonder if Rosie Thompson and Joyce Gott are home yet. David Thiher and Bill Thompson took them home. Some girls get all the luck.

Oct. 10, 1945

Dear Diary:

"Zowie," I'm sure glad I don't belong to F. F. A. Those poor little freshmen boys had to carry stools and milk pails along with them all day and do the darndest things. They threw a big party tonight though, with boiled worms, iced cat eyes etc. So I guess it really was worth it.

Oct. 11, 1945

Dear Diary:

The road was lit by moonlight, the wagon smelled of new mown hay, tonight is perfect, but I wonder why the senior stenos didn't want to invite a few boys to go on the hay ride with us. But —somehow they found out where we were and so we didn't have to walk to town.

Helen Bruch's mom prepared delicious refreshments for us and it's another night worth remembering.

Oct. 18, 1945

Dear Diary:

It's later tonight because I cut my hair after I got home from the pep rally. I got so close to the bon-fire that I singed it and I thought that that way mom wouldn't be able to tell so easily.

It's a swell night and the cheer leaders screamed their lungs out. Coach Everett Davies gave the fellows a peppy talk and then we had a snake dance on the way to town. Everybody got torn from limb to limb but we had lots of fun.

Oct. 19, 1945
Homecoming

Dear Diary:

Tonight I had to soak my feet. I know I taught handsome better than that. I guess I just couldn't move fast enough.

We did lose our game with Independence, but the boys had a fighting spirit.

The "V" Club chose Phillis Heaton as sports queen and they crowned her at the dance tonight and the pearls they presented her were simply be-you-te-ful!

Oct. 25, 1945

Dear Diary:

"As we think, so we grow," said Mr. Gates is his address today to the assembly in his annual talk.

Elvin Woods and Marion Du Fresne are "that way" about each other and so are Dale and Virginia. I watched them all in study hall today. I wish "Handsome" would look at me that a way.

Jim K. brought Handsome and me home from school tonight and we went eighty miles an hour.

Nov. 9, 1945

Dear Diary:

Mom's going to scream when she sees the dust catchers that I won at the Junior Carnival tonight. It could really be classed as a bigger and better carnival. Why Kenny Winsor sounded just like the real Mc Coy when he advertised the different stands. The boxing and wrestling matches were really exciting—no kidding and the refreshments were delicious.

I couldn't stay around long enough to see who took who home. My limit was twelve and the juniors all had to stay and clean up but I bet Patt helped Bud.

Nov. 16, 1945

Dear Diary:

"Moonlight for Herbert" was colossal with an all-star cast. Bob and Willis Daugherty work well on the stage together. Willis was Herbert and he was supposed to be crazy over Helen Hayes. That wouldn't take much pretending.

Oh, I just found out that Cecil Kelly took Francine Kruse home the other night, and "Mickie" Dexter has a new boy friend, I think. They say it is Ted.

The juniors chose their class rings today.

Nov. 18, 1945

Dear Diary:

The band had its first concert today and they're O. K. They had lots of nice selections and a good turnout, and no wonder, the kids have been working hard on their program.

Well, tomorrow is school again. I must say goodnight. Monday always finds me in a daze!

Nov. 19, 1945

Dear Diary:

Mr. Whittington explained to us today ways to keep down inflation and how much the O. P. A. has done for us. Maybe I should save a little more of my allowance. I don't see how I could be causing much harm though.

Donna was telling me that Tom and Helen are back together again. Oh well, true love never does run smooth. (I'm so thankful for that.)

Also Bill Barron and Charlotte Blacksmith trip "the light fantastic" together of late.

SENIOR HISTORY

Disregarding the traditional theories of "green freshmen," we entered high school with the idea that we knew everything and set out to prove it. Consequently, we didn't absorb too much knowledge, but certainly had a good time. We assured anyone who would listen that since our freshman class was the smallest in years (sixty-nine) we concentrated on quality instead of quantity.

Roger Albert, Betty Simons and Bill Barron won honors immediately as class officers, with Betty doubling as cheerleader with a trio of senior girls.. A good start already. Mary Jean Parmater made her debut as an actress as lead in the all high school play "June Mad." All through out the year we averaged eight on the honor roll, a little behind the other classes, but always trying. Colleen Taylor and Don Herbert, steady partners for years were elected to the Student Council.

Virginia Reed, Clarence Selken and Dave Crew showed up as class officers in their sophomore year with Roger Albert and Pat Milroy slated for the student Council. Normalyne Smith and Bill Barron were entered as our popularity candidates for the Junior Carnival. Bob Hilliard shone on the debate team, winning a reputation for his arguing ability. Roger Albert did us proud with a one on the clarinet in the State Music Contest and Bob took time off from his debating activities to earn a one on his tuba solo.

Our Junior year was one of our biggest. Alden Morrison, Roger Albert, and Pat Milroy were class officers and Bob Hilliard and Dave Crew voted to Student Council positions. Phyliss Heaton was the only Junior attendant on the Sports Queen parade. Mr. Lagomarcino ably directed our efforts in organizing the Junior Carnival, during which Phyliss Heaton was crowned Carnival Queen. Plans were begun in March for the Banquet. The Banquet theme was a night club decorated with spring colors, head waiters and floor show.

Our senior year we were joined by students from Mt. Auburn and two ex-servicemen, "Windy" Kunz and "Red" Lockhart. We elected Bill Barron, Jim Kruse, and Joan Goodell as class officers and Red Lockhart, Bob Hilliard and Pat Milroy to the Student Council. We had only two girls in the vocal department but held six first chairs in the band. Sixteen class members earned parts in the play "Springtime" We published the annual per schedule with our co-editors Maurice Gilroy and Pat Milroy. Very nervously we graduated May 17, ready to try our fortune in the wide world.

One morning last September, several persons were greatly alarmed upon entering the school building and meeting several freshmen dressed in night shirts and carrying sacks of candy. Upon investigation it was discovered that the members of the Latin Club were being initiated. They had to bow to their masters, the sophomore Latin students, and treat them to candy.

The Latin Club meets each month both for educational and social purposes. At every meeting Latin is used in some way such as singing songs in Latin or playing games similar to those played by the Romans.

The officers consist of Beth Smalley as president, Lois Worthen vice president, and Nancy Lynch secretary-treasurer. Miss Bogard served as sponsor the first semester and Mrs. McAtee has taken charge for the second semester.

The Library Club, which was organized some twelve years ago, has a membership of thirty-five and is under the supervision of Mrs. McAtee. After a busy day of checking out weighty volumes, the club often meets for an evening of rousing recreation. An important event for the librarians was the trip to the library at Coe College.

In addition to many new books purchased by the school, students enjoy the use of several shipments of traveling library books. Those having books overdue hear their names in the morning announcements and pay one cent fine for each day the book is overdue. How the library treasury grows!

The club president is Helen Bruch assisted by Margaret Crow as vice president and Donna Johnson as secretary-treasurer.

The staff is capably directed by Pat Milroy as editor and Janet St. Clair as Junior assistant editor. Miss Woolverton has charge of editing and Miss McIlrath supervises production. The senior commercial students do the typing.

A new mimeograph, which was purchased with money accumulated from "P and G" sales for the last four years, speeded up production.

An additional column added to this year's "P and G" is devoted to printing letters from students giving their opinions on current happenings at school or school events. This gives students a chance to air their opinions.

With school only two weeks away, prospects for the 1945 Vinton football squad assembled to commence drill on the local gridiron. Only three lettermen—Clarence Selken, Cecil Kelly and Alden Morrison returned to spark the remainder of the group. The season began with two straight wins, which preceded a defeat by Cedar Falls. It wound up with a victory over Belle Plaine and a loss to an undefeated Marengo eleven.

Coach Everett Davies came to Vinton this year from Iowa Falls after being discharged from the Army. The boys feel that they owe a great deal to him and Assistant Coach J. Harvey Smyth for their understanding attitudes and patience throughout the season.

"Red" Lockhart also deserves a word of praise for his work with the squad and later as coach of the Junior High team.

The 1945-46 Vinton Basketball squad more than held its own through a tough season's schedule. They maintained a two-thirds winning average with the final count standing at 16 won and eight lost.

In competition among conference tournament schools, Vinton displayed its fine playing points as well as good sportsmanship. They placed third in the Wa-Mac Conference, won both the County and Sectional tournaments, and the initial round in the district with Tama but finally were defeated by Newton. This record placed them among the top-notchers in Vinton basketball history.

The Purple's total scores for the season were 952 with their opponents tally standing at 798. Clarence Selken scored 320 of these points with Cecil Kelly hitting 233 for second place.

There will be eight letters awarded to players and one to the manager, Dick Haefner.

The Freshman and Sophomore basketball boys entered their basketball season with an immense amount of enthusiasm. Thirty-five reported for basketball last fall and when the season drew to a close, twenty-five were still on the active list.

In not one game did they seem to know the meaning of the words give up. They played together as a team. Their passing as a whole was excellent, with Maurice Whitson burning them in and John Hays receiving the ball. Jim Dulin came through with his good rebound recover, and those points that built up the score. Willis Daugherty helped out with his height, and when tired sometimes reposed under the basket to make his shots while lying on the floor. Dean Harrison and Fred Hite brought the ball up with great speed, and shot from out on the floor.

Dick Ehlinger and David Thiher were the reserves who efficiently helped the game along when called upon.

Other boys whose playing helped the team afford stiff competition are as follows: Gilbert Hanson, Jack Yerkes, Dudley Koontz, Jack Wayson, Dean Gauger, Ralph Knaack, Leland Haack, Lloyd Dill, Neal Spence, Bill Guenther, Bill Thompson, Everett Schirm, Duane Geator and Norman Landgrebe.

The boys receiving letters for their participation in games, are as follows: Jim Dulin, John Hays, Willis Daugherty, Dean Harrison, Maurice Whitson, David Thiher and Dick Ehlinger.

Mr. Smyth deserves a great deal of credit for his coaching of the team.

Twenty-one years ago the Vinton chapter of the National Honor Society was organized. In order to qualify for membership, students must fulfill the four ideals of the organization —scholarship, leadership, character, and service. The National Honor Society holds a position of prestige all over America. Each year the faculty chooses members of the junior and senior classes to receive this distinction. Students wearing the National Honor Society pin may hold their heads high with pride for it is an honor given to a select few.

Juniors elected to the society last year were Maurice Gilroy, Patricia Milroy, and Marjorie Richardson.

The Vinton Chapter was organized in 1925 and adopted the name of Sigma Lambda Gamma in 1941.

"Very Unusual for a High School Band," was the statement of a judge commenting on the Vinton High School Band. The band attributes their attainment to hard work, instruments of fine quality and excellent instruction. This year they are under the capable direction of M. H. Mahannah.

This organization leads a very active life throughout the year. Twice during the summer of "45" the band presented a thirty minute concert over radio station KXEL at Cedar Falls and also gave an afternoon concert for the patients at Schick Hospital at Clinton.

The football season saw them practicing deligently twice a week after school along with twelve snappy baton twirlers led by the flash drum majorette La Vonne Robison. They performed excellent marching exhibitions during the halves of the football games much to the delight of the audience. These "music lovers" played a great part spurring the team on to victory by providing music and enthusiasm at the pep meetings and games.

The band practiced 4th period each day with the exception of Wednesday and all the other fourth period classes were highly entertained by the music floating up through the ventilating system.

They could always be depended on to provide music for the other activities and were often called upon to do so.

Assisting the band this year as librarians were Kathryn Welton and Margaret Kelly.

A band letter is earned by the earning of one hundred points and a stripe is added for each additional one-hundred points.

Several concerts were given throughout the year and were well received.

During the latter part of the school year chamber groups and solos were begun in preparation for contest. Before and after school each day the hall resounded with the music from the vorious instruments.

The Vinton music department consists of Girls Glee Club, Boys Glee Club, Mixed Chorus and other small groups. Under the direction of Miss Magdaline Popoff, the vocal instructor, the groups have sung both classical and semi-classical arrangements of a variety of composers.

Three public concerts were given during the year and a "Swing Show" was given in the fall with popular songs of the day carried out as the theme. Their three contest pieces were "Donkey Serenade", "Holiday Song", and "Tales from the Vienna Woods."

The Girls Glee Club started out the year by electing its officers, President—Shirley Fry, Social Chairman—Carol Harper, and Librarians—Evelyn Haack and June Rollinson. The thirty-five girls in the Glee Club worked very conscientiously, making the most of every song. Esther Haack and Phyllis Neiting were the only girls that represented the 1946 Senior Class in the Girls Glee Club. Janet Fye was the accompanist.

The Boys Glee Club with only fifteen boys was small but took an active part in recitals and shows. The officers for the year were Robert Daugherty, president, Willis Daugherty, social secretary. June Rollinson was the pianist. There were no senior boys in this years Glee Club.

SWING SHOW

The first presentation of the vocal department was the swing show which was given in four very effective scenes.

The first scene was a very pretty one with paper parasols grouping boys and girls in couples. In the second was a gay gypsy scene with whirling dances. The third was glamorous moon-light and shadows with only girls on the stage. The fourth scene was South American and featured La Vonne Robison as Carmen Miranda as the grand finale.

Any boy who has earned a major letter in any of the three main sports—football, Basketball, or track is eligible to belong to the "V" Club. Vinton High first organized the "V" Club in 1928. Its purpose is to create interest in athletics and to promote good sportsmanship.

Each year the "V" Club chooses the sports queen and her attendants. This year their choice for queen was Phyllis Heaton and her attendants were Colleen Taylor, Joan Goodell, Virginia Richart, and Janet Miller. Phyllis was crowned queen at the homecoming football game.

Alden Morrison serves as president of the organization with Clarence Selken as vice-president, and John Bunten as secretary-treasurer.

The year 1945-46 has brought many changes in the Ham Actors of Lincoln High School. Under the leadership of Kenneth Winsor, president; Eugene Barnes, vice president; Ruth Elwick, treasurer; and Arlene Heppe, secretary, the Ham Actors has grown from one of the smaller school organizations to the largest one in V. H. S. this year with a membership of one hundred twenty-five.

In the fall the Ham Actors sponsored a school dance. The gym was decorated with pumpkins, corn stalks and bales of hay. They showed their resourcefulness that night when the lights were turned down low and then suddenly went out by getting the situation well in hand by putting on a stage show with stage lights.

After Christmas vacation, work was started on three one-act plays with students chosen as directors. On February 12, the plays were presented in the West School auditorium with the following directors: Engene Barnes "I Shall Be Waiting," Bill Esderts, "Take a Letter," Donna Rae Harmon, "Dynamite."

'I Shall Be Waiting" was chosen as the contest play and on March 28 the cast presented it at the Play Festival at Iowa City where they won an "excellent" rating.

MOONLIGHT FOR HERBERT

A comedy in three acts by Dora Thomas was presented at V. H. S. on November 16 under the direction of Mrs. Irma McAtee.

Margaret Rains thinks she and her husband are aptly named. Indeed her life seems to be one storm after another and all because of Herbert. Herbert at sixteen is already a musical genius and his ideas are always getting his family into difficulties. His music teacher has gone to all sorts of trouble to get Mrs. Ellington Lewis to arrange an appointment with Mr. Hiedler and Herbert doesn't show up. When he does arrive it is with Vincent, his co-partner in misfortune, two twelve-foot planks and many excuses. When they tumble down the stairs and Herbert injures his hands the musical personages leave in disdain. The planks were for a float the boys were building and this causes further trouble. It is a copy of the new school house which repeatedly keeps collapsing during the parade. Mr. Tierney has contracted to build the school and since Herbert's father is also a contractor, Mr. Tierney sees it as an aspersion of his professional reputation. Mr. Farnsworth almost loses his job over the incident. Mr. Rains does lose the building of a hotel and five houses. Suddenly all is made right and the boys are applauded as the city's saviours. Herbert gets another chance to play for Mr. Heidler due to the efforts of Joan Bressort, Herbert's "Miss Moonlight."

Bob's in wrong again! His sister and kid brother hint he'd better do a vanishing act before the folks hear of his latest. Even Joan, his girl, is madder than anyone, unless you count her dad, the principal. Bob tries to do magic before the school assembly to impress Joan but things go wrong. Bob decides to skip school a day to let things blow over so he suddenly has bronchial complications.

Meanwhile the kid brother tears the principal's coat and, when Joan comes by to pick it up, he hides it in the laundry bag. The maid dyes everything in the bag bright yellow, including the coat. Trouble is everywhere.

Bob picks up some rabbits near the zoo and puts them in the basement where they are thriving and multiplying.

To help Bob his mother decides to entertain the P. T. A. ladies who she hopes will put in a good word to the principal. But the plan goes haywire and the ladies get caught in some homemade booby traps (contrived out of such reliable ingredients as a hot pad, fly paper, pepper and an electric fan.) They are very angry, and resolve to denounce him to the pincipal.

Then a plainclothesman comes snooping about the rabbits. Bob's parents are prepared to believe he has stolen the pests. The lady from the zoo suddenly appears and clears up the mystery. The rabbits are chinchillas and worth a great deal.

In the end Bob is forgiven by the principal, all set with Jane and approved, for once, even by his father!!!

The play was under the supervision of Mrs. McAtee, Mary Parmater was student director.

The club meets each month with each member having a chance to be hostess. During National Education Week the girls invited their mothers to visit two of their classes and at noon served a dinner for their mothers in the Home Economics room.

Early in the fall they participated in an inter-chapter dairy field day by sending two representatives to take part. They also cooperated with station KXEL in a radio transcription.

The Chapter continued their aid to the cause of conservation by sponsoring three demonstration farms operated by three chapter members and their fathers, and offering these demonstration farms to their home communities for improved soil conservation practices.

The Chapter continued the operation of the stand at the home football games, offering hot dogs and cold drinks to the hungry youth of Vinton—when they could get hot dogs and cold drinks. They also sponsored the maintenance of a bulletin board in the study hall, an assembly program and a parent's night.

The upper classmen of the Chapter sponsored basketball games with a brother chapter at Belle Plaine and games with FFA alumni. They put on a series of squad parties for the "Ag" classes and also took part in the district F. F. A. public speaking contest as well as cooperating with other agricultural organizations in numerous ways. The boys feel that the success of their many activities during the year have been due to a large degree to the efficiency of their sponsor, Mr. Cree.

A council sponsored dance was the first social activity of the year and a big success. Later in the year men students clamored for a Women Pay All Week which resulted in the council organizing a week of fun beginning with a box social on Monday. Other activities were movies, a youth center night, skating parties, basketball game, a dance and private parties.

T. N. T. CLUB

Bottom Row—Virginia Brehm, Miss Knipfer, Donna Johnson.

Sounds like dynamite doesn't it? And if you ask some of the grade children, who have come in contact with these prospective schoolmarms, I'm sure they would agree.

The membership is comparatively small this year, with only six members. But that has not put a halt to their activities about V. H. S., encouraged by the leadership of Miss Knipfer, Normal Training Instructor.

Highlights on the social calendar this year consisted of picnics, chili suppers, steak fries, a super special Christmas party, and a swimming party to put us back in shape. To make the year complete it was topped off with a big farewell party.

Practice teaching was carried on all during the year, with a full week of teaching in the rural schools to wind up a profitable year of experiences.

This is the last graduating class of Normal Training, because of conflicting state laws, so it's goodbye to an organization that is sure to be missed in V. H. S.

A HIGH SCHOOL GIRL'S DIARY

Nov. 28, 1945
Swing Show

Dear Diary:

Oh, swoon, swoon! The vocal department had their annual swing show toight. It was super duper. La Vonne Robison portrayed Carmen Miranda, hubba hubba! Colleen Gordon, Iris Davis and Carol Harper did a swell job with their solos and I've decided that Keith Johnson is just all right.

Dec. 12, 1945

Dear Diary:

An ex-grad talked today. Mmm. He was easy on the eyes and interesting too. He was Keith Mossman. He reported on his work piloting planes from the United States to South America.

All the girls are trying to hang on to their ready steadies with Christmas just around the corner.

Dec. 21, 1945
Christmas Dance

Dear Diary:

V. H. S. sadly said goodbye to Miss Bogard today. Aldie's "Rythm Masters" dedicated a song to her on their Truth or Consequences program. parting is so sad.

Feb. 18, 1946
W. P. A Week

Dear Diary:

Well, believe it or not, it is here at last—W. P. A. week. From the way dad growled when I asked for a loan, I don't believe he appreciates my big moments, but, oh brother, I do! We really had a big time at the box social and you should have seen cute Jim Christy and Sanky.

Feb. 19, 1946

Dear Diary:

Supposed to go ice skating tonight but no ice. We just had to take in the movie. It would have been cheaper to ice skate.

Feb. 20, 1946

Dear Diary:

What do you know? Study night—and believe me I really learned a lot! So did Colleen. She vowed never to date Aldie again.

Feb. 21, 1946

Dear Diary:

Jeepers, we went to the show again tonight. I'm nearly flat. After the show Iris ordered a coke hoping Duane would do the same, but I guess boys can never take a hint.

Feb. 22, 1946

Dear Diary:

What a let down! I managed to just scrape up enough for the dance. (I took a little from Jr's bank.) And then we didn't have it. The phonograph broke. The game was exciting any way, even if we didn't win.

March 10, 1946

Dear Diary:

The folks are at church; so all's peaceful in the household. The glee club concert was this afternoon. Jeepers, now, I can't decide among Bing, Frankie and Mr. Baxter. He is simply wonderful! The whole concert was super. I only wish I could carry a tune.

March 19, 1946

Dear Diary:

Handsome thinks he wasted a good 80c tonight, cause by the time we got down to the Arrow show the building was bulging. Oh well, he must admit it was for a good cause. But—now I have to pay his way to the show come tomorrow night. This man shortage is getting the best of me. Well, must dream of a way to catch a more dependent man.

March 28, 1946

Dear Diary:

You know if I but had a little ability I could have gotten out of school at three today as did the play cast to make their debut at Iowa City. The play "I Shall Be Waiting" went and it is bound to bring us honors.

March 30, 1946

Dear Diary:

Well—they did! Colleen Taylor and Helen Hays received certificates of recognition. It was all because of their outstanding reading ability at Iowa City.

Helen about had a "college man" at her heels. It seems as if he heard her telling of her liking for college freshmen. He was one.

Church again in the morning so goodnight.

April 5 and 6, 1946

Dear Diary:

I didn't write Friday. You see I got out of school to be in the music contest that was held here and I was busy all day and tired at night. I just got home from it now and we did all right both in instrumental and vocal.

April 8, 1946

Dear Diary:

A few senior classes missed the silly T. N. T. girls today. They are conducting the Three R's in the country this week. No doubt they'll have some interesting things to relate at the termination of this. I bet they at least will have a little more sympathy for their teachers the remaining four weeks.

May 3, 1946

Dear Diary:

My flowers are a wreck. My formal is frightfully dirty but, oh, what a perfect night! My last Jr. Sr. banquet and honestly those juniors know how to entertain. It's frightfully late but tonight was something extra special. The end of a perfect day. Ho Hum!

May 10, 1946

Dear Diary:

"A Case of Spring" fitting enough for our play and an all-star cast that was equally as fitting. I'm sure the heap big crowd was well pleased. They couldn't help but be! Another thing looked forward to went off with a bang but I'll always remember it. It was colossal! I mean really.

May 12, 1946

Dear Diary:

Tonight was rather quiet. We had our baccalaureate services at the Methodist church and everyone looked so solemn in their caps and gowns. The wasps and fire flies flitting in the windows added to the scene, somewhat. It doesn't seem possible that Friday is the end of high school. In a way I hope Friday takes a long time getting here. This week is senior week. The week when all seniors spend most of their time at school. In a way I wish I were a freshman—but it's too late now.

March 29, 1946

Dear Diary:

Now I'm no longer a school girl. I'm both glad and sad. I must admit I cried a little. We seniors held class day today and got the deluxe edition of the '46 Arrow. It is worth my $2.50. I love it! We had commencement tonight and its so different being a part of the audience. Or being the audience, reason for being there. I walked off the stage for the last time as a student in V. H. S. with regrets. I'll look at my diploma once more and then I'll say thanks for the memories. I told the girls I'd cry and I am.

Goodnight

Early in the fall Miss Knipfer, sponsor, and Mr. Mc Allister, adviser, organized the Arrow staff with Maurice Gilroy, and Pat Milroy as co-editors and Tom Lockhart as business manager.

Combatting film and paper shortages the staff endeavored to make the Arrow as big and as interesting as possible. Photo editors could be seen before and after school snapping pictures of unsuspecting students. The photographer took several days from his studio to photograph the various clubs in the school gymn. Every night after school the chemistry lab was transformed into the Arrow workshop and busy members cut, pasted, wrote and created the annual.

Tom chose the Arrow salesgirls in February and saw that super salesmanship was applied. March 19, the Arrow sponsored a benefit movie "Danny Boy" at the Palace theater.

April saw the last few hectic days of revising, organizing and meeting dead lines. Original plans call for the Arrow to be distributed after class day exercises, May 17.

IN CONCLUSION

Doris Walker, Patsy Milroy, Miss Knipfer, Stewart Hanna, Maurice Gilroy

After eight months of hard work and horseplay, we've completed the "Arrow." We wish to thank everyone who helped to make our annual possible.
